Lt. Wesselhoeft, Polio Victim, in Plane Which Carried Him to Calcutta

Mercy Hop

The 14-day fight to save the life of 2 Lt. Robert Wesselhoeft, Jr., of Westwood, after he was stricken with infantile paralysis in the Chinese hinterlands, was told today . . . and the soldier, husband of (at left) the former Nancy Deane Stevens, is now recovering in Calcutta where he was taken by plane. Yanks Push into Chartres

By GLADWIN HILL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 11 (AP)—American armor and infantry formations were unofficially reported knifing into Chartres, only 37 miles southwest of the Paris suburb of Versailles, and turning northward today in a scythelike sweep threatening all the German forces south of the Seine.

The German communiqué said the American thrust had turned northward from Le Mans with strong air support, and the Paris radio reported the Americans had burst past Alençon, 30 miles north of Le Mans. The Germans said the Americans had run into heavy fighting in that direction.

(Alençon 97 miles west of Versailles, is just 42 miles southeast of the Canadian-tipped wedge driven to within five miles of Falaise.)

Meanwhile combat teams made rapid progress on the Brittany peninsula to the rear, completing capture of the Loire river cities of Nantes and Angers, and wiping out all resistance except at one stronghold, the Citadel, in St. Malo on the north coast, thus cleaning up three of six large centers of Nazi resistance on the Brittany rim. Fighting continued at Brest and Lorient and probably at St. Nazaire.

The German radio said 1,500,000 men were engaged on both sides in the far-flung battles ranging from Brittany, through the Paris-pointed salient to the Caen sector.

British troops today stormed into the Jout German bastion of Thury-Harcourt, at the top of a steep wooded valley along the Orne river known as "the Switzerland of Normandy."

There was no official confirmation at supreme headquarters of various reports of striking progress past Le Mans, which was captured two days ago, but it was obvious the Paris-pointed spearhead had the alternatives of swinging north toward the English channel south of Paris, south of the capital in an encircling move, or splitting and passing on both sides of it.

A swing northward would threaten the rear of the Germans stubbornly held swivel position below Caen and approximately 20 divisions or remnants of divisions—upward of 300,000 men. If the sweep crossed the Seine it would threaten isolation of Le Havre and other channel ports, as well as the rocket bomb coast.

Unofficial reports said other armored columns meanwhile had veered southeast from Le Mans toward Orleans on the Loire below Paris.

(An NBC broadcast said Americans in this drive were attacking Chateaudun, 62 miles from Versailles and 30 miles from Orleans. Chateaudun is 52 miles east of Le Mans. The Brazzaville radio said there were reports Chartres was in Allied hands.)

The large-scale encirclement that thus appeared to be in the making would be far more disastrous to the German's whole defense of western Europe than simply pushing Rommel's line back to Paris and the Seine.

The British renewed pressure

FRANCE—Arrows show Allied drives in France today, including Yank thrusts beyond Le Mans, which were reported to be aimed at Chartres, Tours and Chateaudun. British and Canadians renewed their offensive south of Caen and Americans recaptured Gathemo in the Vire-Mortain salient.

JAP BASES HIT—Yank Superfortresses smash at Jap targets 3500 miles apart, bombing the industrial center of Nagasaki in Japan and the oil center of Palembang on Sumatra. Meanwhile, Yank Liberators raid Jap airdromes at Davao, in the Philippines.

Reeling Japs Rush Work On Home Defense Plan

By the Associated Press

The Pacific war reached a new turning today, launched auspiciously by the first Allied offensive bombing of the Philippines, more B-29 attacks on harried Japan, liberation of Guam and by a historic Roosevelt-MacArthur-Nimitz meeting which may have set the U. S. course toward Tokyo itself.

The triphammer blows rained upon them from every quarter impelled the Japanese to begin work on a plan "for strengthening of domestic defense."

Superfortresses flying out of China yesterday bombed Nagasaki on Japan's home island of Kyushu where planes are made. Another group of the sky giants based in southeast Asia inflicted damage on the big oil installations at Palembang on Sumatra.

PIERCE ATTACK

Of the Nagasaki raid, Tokyo acknowledged that "the manner in which the enemy carried out his attacks was extremely fierce." The terse War Department announcement said that the raids were "medium-sized."

Davao, chief Japanese base on Minadano, southernmost of the Philippine Islands, was bombed for the first time since Corregidor fell, May 6, 1942, in three raids beginning Aug. 7. Gen. MacArthur's raiders, presumably flying from newly won New Guinea area bases, caught Davao with its lights up, and smashed airdromes.

Simultaneously with news of this new blow MacArthur announced that Japan's trapped 18th Army, once 60,000 strong, had been crushingly defeated, its remnants sent fleeing into New Guinea's mountains and toward by-passed Wewak.

Adm. Nimitz announced last night that Guam was now restored to the U. S. Reconquest cost 1214 American dead and 6033 other casualties. The Japanese lost 10,971 dead and an island within Superfortress range of Japan, the Philippines and China.

NEW BASE ON SAIPAN

The series of hard blows was capped by establishment of amphibious fleet and troop headquarters by Adm. Richmond C. Turner on Saipan, first of the Marianas Islands to fall. This meant the U. S. Navy was setting up an advance base 3000 miles west of Pearl Harbor and right in Japan's watery front yard.

Turner called the Marianas campaign "the greatest naval victory the United States ever won." That campaign breached Japan's inner defenses with the seizure of Guam, Saipan and Tinian.

In the background of the quickening Pacific war stood the meeting at Pearl Harbor of President Roosevelt, Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur. There in three days ending July 29, they mapped strategy to force Japan into unconditional surrender.

Chinese forces fought hard to retake Hengyang before the Japanese could consolidate their hold on the important rail center. In Yunnan province other Chinese whittled away at Japanese clinging to Burma road bases.

Vanishing Act

IRUN, Spain, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Germans themselves joke about morale in Hitler's armies.

A Frenchman who crossed the frontier said he had heard a drunken German officer remark that the Nazi secret weapon V-2 consisted of millions of civilian coats and bicycles. The officer then added: "That's all the German army needs to vanish."

Polish Troops Gain 2 Miles in Italy

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, Aug. 11 (AP)—Polish troops, launching an infantry and tank offensive along a six-mile front on the Adriatic coast, have captured high ground overlooking the Cesano Valley and have sent patrols across the Cesano river after a two-mile initial advance. Allied headquarters said today.

Scapezzano, Monterado and Corinaldo were seized as the Poles swept through Nazi defenses. The drive to the South bank of the Cesano put the Poles about half way between the captured Port of Ancona and the next major town of Pesara, where the outposts of the Adriatic end of the Gothic line are believed to begin.

Three hundred prisoners were taken at the beginning of the offensive and the Germans suffered further heavy casualties in attempting five unsuccessful counterattacks in which they used self-propelled guns and mortars.

The hard-pressed Germans were reported to have withdrawn entirely from the south bank of the Cesano.

Troops of the Polish Carpathian Division seized important high ground two miles northeast of La Croce after that village was taken in the first hour of the attack. Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's headquarters said the situation in Florence "remains the same."

6 Ships Sunk In Nazi Convoy

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—RAF Beaufighters tore into a German convoy of five merchant ships and 10 escort vessels last evening off Heligoland, the air ministry announced today, and sank or damaged at least six of the craft.

One of the merchantmen was torpedoed and left burning fiercely while another was believed hit and set afire, the announcement declared. Of the escort ships, one was blown up when hit with rocket projectiles and four others were set ablaze. Four planes were lost in the fray.

Flying Bombs Cause Damage in England

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—German flying bomb attacks on Britain last night were limited to two flurries of activity—one early in the evening and another shortly after midnight.

An official announcement said casualties and damage had been caused by the robots, some of which fell in the London area.

Reds Closing In on E. Prussia, Warsaw

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP)—Russian armies applying a great pincers upon East Prussia swept today within 50 miles of Tilsit and Memel and threatened the southern boundary of that home of the Junkers with a plunge across the Narew river.

Marshal Rokossovsky, besieging Warsaw for the 12th day, thrust a threatening army group toward East Prussia from positions northeast of the Polish capital. This group increased the menace to Warsaw, too, because it could curve to the Vistula and outflank the Polish city from the north.

Russian troops already were seven or more miles inside the Suwalki triangle, which Germany annexed to East Prussia from Poland in 1939. In the north, the Soviet Army group of 37-year-old Gen. Ivan Cherniakovsky, sent bombs and artillery shells into the German province and fought bitter and repeated counterattacks at several gateways to East Prussia.

(In this great action, the Germans started reporting that they were greatly outnumbered.) A hundred miles or so south of Warsaw the Russians widened the breach across the Vistula river to 42 miles and advanced doggedly to within 26 miles of Kielce. In that area the Red army stood within 75 miles of German Silesia and within 35 of Krakow, ancient capital of Poland and her fifth city.

Tito Partisans Open New Drive

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Yugoslav Partisans, driving on a 70-mile front, have cut the railroad tracks at several places between Nis and Skopje, a communique from Marshal Tito's headquarters announced today.

Brus, 43 miles west of Nis, was recaptured. West of Leskovac and Vranje, below Nis, a 30-mile-wide sector was developing, with the drive aimed toward the railway and the Morava river.

Kidnap Father Won't Quit Bed

His cot in Dedham jail seemed so cozy this morning and the prospect of getting up to face trial for kidnaping his daughter so dreary, Edward F. Mathews, 50-year-old Weymouth shoe manufacturer, resolutely rolled over for another snooze.

Jail attendants protested. Mathews waved them away. "I do not choose to get up," he said.

"Please stop bothering me," Edwin Downes, deputy master of the jail, wax called.

"Get up, Mr. Mathews," he ordered. "You are due before Judge Gilbert W. Cox in Dedham District Court at 9 a. m. And first you will have to eat breakfast."

"I do not desire to have breakfast at this hour and I do not desire to get up," said Mathews, a former college professor.

GET WIFE'S AID

Downes lifted his voice authoritatively.

Mathews pulled the sheet over his head.

Rather than have it said the Commonwealth of Massachusetts had laid hands upon a guest so appreciative of his prison pallet.

Deputy Master Downes hurried over to the courthouse. He and Court Officer Albert Rafferty told the waiting Judge Cox it didn't look as though Mathews would get up.

The startled jurist held a lobby conference with John B. Mahar, Mathews' counsel, and Asst. Dist. Atty. George L. Rabb.

Mahar emerged in search of Mrs. Erna Mathews, the prisoner's wife. He explained the situation to her.

Mrs. Mathews left the courtroom with jail officials and walked determinedly in the direction of her husband's cell.

SAY HIS REST ENDED

A court attendant nodded approvingly.

"There ain't a man in the world who can sleep if his wife doesn't want him to," he said.

Jungle Miracle Saves Hub Man

By JOHN McLEAN AND JOSEPH FRANKLAND

In one of the most dramatic rescues of the war, 2 Lt. Robert Wesselhoeft, Jr., 27, of Westwood, was kept alive by artificial respiration for 14 days along jungle trails in China and in an air flight over the high Himalayas in a heroic and winning fight against dread infantile paralysis.

The socially prominent Wesselhoeft was stricken while on duty in a remote corner of the Chinese hinterland with an AAF mapping party.

Six Chinese coolies, hired and taught how to keep up treatment, kept him alive in China and a pilot flew a light transport plane, one-hand, over mountain ranges, meanwhile pumping an improvised respirator, on the final leg to medical ministrations at a Calcutta, India, hospital.

At the Calcutta hospital, where he is now recovering, he was attended by 2 Lt. Ruth Horton, 24-year-old Acton girl, now an Army nurse, who learned the treatment for infantile at Massachusetts General Hospital from the victim's uncle, Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft, chief surgeon at Haynes Memorial Hospital.

INDECISION MEANT DEATH

The stirring fight to keep young Wesselhoeft alive, when a moment's indecision or neglect meant death, was revealed today in an Associated Press dispatch and augmented by Dr. Wesselhoeft in an interview with the Boston Evening American.

The victim is socially prominent in Boston and is a cousin of Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, wife of the governor.

"I have heard from my nephew in a letter written for him at a Calcutta hospital by Lt. Horton, who I now recall as one of my students," Dr. Wesselhoeft said today. "He's improving and soon expects to return home to his wife, Nancy, and their two youngsters, Marjorie, 3, and Robert, Jr., 3 months, who are staying for the summer in Chatham."

"Robert has been overseas as a photographer with the Army Air Force for six months and never has seen his young son. His wife took the first news we had that he had been stricken with infantile just like a soldier's wife should."

Stricken in the jungle, Wesselhoeft managed to hold himself in the saddle of his mount for two days until the party reached the home of a missionary.

A wireless message was sent for a ship to bring him out and then artificial respiration was begun. Six Chinese, hired to spell the tired members of the party, kept up respiration until a transport arrived. He was flown off a makeshift air strip 1500 feet long, which was constructed by his companions. Maj. Fred G. Welsh, the pilot, of West Englewood, N. J., skimmed 17,000-foot mountain ranges in weather that grounded all other planes to reach Calcutta. There he was placed in an iron lung.

In her letter to Dr. Wesselhoeft, Lt. Horton wrote: "It is strange that I should be entrusted with his care and that I was trained for this work by you. When he was first stricken he was kept alive in the jungles by respiration that is used on a drowning person. He now is able to leave his respirator for several hours each day and soon will be coming home."

HARVARD GRADUATE

Young Wesselhoeft was married in 1939 to the former Nancy Dean Stevens of Westwood. He prepared for college at Milton Academy and was graduated at Harvard, where he starred in soccer, in 1939. He is a member of the Fox Club and the Hasty Pudding Club.

His father is associated with the oil industry in Colombia, South America, and the young airman also was connected with that industry prior to enlistment.

Miss Horton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Horton of Main st., Acton. She has a brother in the British air corps. She was graduated from Massachusetts General and Haynes Memorial Hospitals. She has been in service in India for the last two years.

Cop Rescues 2 Women in Surf

Two Winthrop women, caught in the undertow and surf off Winthrop beach, were rescued today by a Metropolitan District patrolman.

Patrolman William Hallion, en route home from night duty at Revere beach, leaped from his car, shed his hat, coat and shoes, and plunged in.

Struggling in the thundering surf, Hallion dragged the two women to shallow water, where spectators helped get them to safety.

Hallion, assisted by unidentified spectators, revived them by artificial respiration.

The rescued women, Mrs. Eva Linken, 46, and Sarah Constant, 43, both of Triton ave., Winthrop, were able to go home unaided.

Cop Rescues 2 Women in Surf

Two Winthrop women, caught in the undertow and surf off Winthrop beach, were rescued today by a Metropolitan District patrolman.

Patrolman William Hallion, en route home from night duty at Revere beach, leaped from his car, shed his hat, coat and shoes, and plunged in.

Struggling in the thundering surf, Hallion dragged the two women to shallow water, where spectators helped get them to safety.

Hallion, assisted by unidentified spectators, revived them by artificial respiration.

The rescued women, Mrs. Eva Linken, 46, and Sarah Constant, 43, both of Triton ave., Winthrop, were able to go home unaided.

Kidnap Father Won't Quit Bed

His cot in Dedham jail seemed so cozy this morning, and the prospect of getting up to face trial for kidnaping his daughter so dreary, Edward F. Mathews, 50-year-old Weymouth shoe manufacturer, resolutely rolled over for another snooze.

Jail attendants protested, Mathews waved them away. "I do not choose to get up," he said.

"Please stop bothering me," Edwin Downes, deputy master of the jail, was called.

"Get up, Mr. Mathews," he ordered. "You are due before Judge Gilbert W. Cox in Dedham District Court at 9 a. m. And first you will have to eat breakfast."

"I do not desire to have breakfast at this hour and I do not desire to get up," said Mathews, a former college professor.

GET WIFE'S AID

Downes lifted his voice authoritatively. Mathews pulled the sheet over his head.

Rather than have it said the Commonwealth of Massachusetts had laid hands upon a guest at a representative of his prison pallet, Deputy Master Downes hurried over to the courthouse. He and Court Officer Albert Rafferty told the waiting Judge Cox it didn't look as though Mathews would get up.

The startled jurist held a lobby conference with John B. Mahar, Mathews' counsel, and Asst. Dist. Atty. George L. Rabb.

Mahar emerged in search of Mrs. Erna Mathews, the prisoner's wife. He explained the situation to her.

Mrs. Mathews left the courtroom with jail officials and walked determinedly in the direction of her husband's cell.

SAY HIS REST ENDED

A court attendant nodded approvingly. "There ain't a man in the world who can sleep if his wife doesn't want him to," he said.

Mrs. Mathews returned to the courtroom.

Shortly thereafter Mathews arrived. He entered the prisoners' dock and rubbed his eyes sleepily.

The first witness was his former secretary, Miss Avery, mother of the child.

Mathews leaned forward and called to her softly, "Carol . . . Carol . . . Carol . . . Carol . . ."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Rabb broke in and warned Mathews to keep quiet.

TELLS OF HIS VISIT

Miss Avery, 28, testified Mathews had taken her to Batavia, N. Y., slightly more than four years ago, where the child was born.

She said she had been Mathews' secretary for six years, until she resigned last April and took the little girl to New Hampshire.

Mathews visited them in Antrim, July 29, remained three days, pleading with her to come back to him, or at least give him the child, she related.

One morning she awoke to find him and her daughter missing. He testified. She dressed and ran to her automobile, but found the tires had been deflated. Then, she said, she traced Mathews and the girl to the home of his friends in Wellesley and had him arrested.

Under cross-examination as to whether Mathews was father of the child, Miss Avery refused to answer lest it incriminate her.

Judge Cox ruled she was within her rights.

She said the little girl "loved" Mathews but called him, "Uncle."

Hospital Head Tells A. L. 15,000 Beds Needed

Declaring veteran hospital facilities in Massachusetts are far too inadequate, Dr. Winthrop Adams, head of the Veterans' Hospital at Bedford, declared before the State Department American Legion Convention today that at least 15,000 beds would be needed in the next 10 years.

Dr. Adams said that additional hospital facilities provided for by the GI "Bill of Rights" would not be enough for Massachusetts.

At the present time, he said, the nation's hospital bed capacity was only 60,000 and that 2300 of this figure was all that Massachusetts had, despite the outlook presaging many invalid and mental cases among returning veterans of World War II.

Dr. Adams' address keyed to a drive by the State Department for the best possible hospitalization and rehabilitation for returning heroes of the present war.

STATE HEAD FIGHT

At least a dozen resolutions dealing with hospitalization were expected to come before the convention during the day, in which the delegates were to have an address by Gov. Saltonstall and hold final talks on the fight for State Commander.

The candidates are William F. Campbell, Thomas F. Mackey and Timothy F. McLaughlin, all vice-commanders. In last year's election, Campbell topped the field for vice-commander with 574 out of 700 votes, with McLaughlin in second and Mackey third. Balloting begins tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. with the polls closing at 11 a. m.

It is expected that the new commander will be known in time for the parade—first for the Legion since beginning of the war—which starts promptly at 2 p. m.

In the line of march will be approximately 30,000 men and women of the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard.

The 26th Infantry of the State Guard, commanded by Col. Vincent C. Breen, DSC, will represent the Commonwealth's military forces.

ALARMED AT PROPOSAL

Earlier, at last night's dinner given the Legion by Mayor Tobin, the delegates heard R. Adm. Robert A. Theobald, commandant of the First Naval District, and Brig. Gen. Clinton DeWitt, Jr., commander at the Boston Port of Embarkation, express opposition to plans to consolidate the Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

The proposal on foot is to consolidate these three branches at the close of the war. R. Adm. Theobald said he was alarmed over such a proposal.

Rear Adm. Theobald warned against the let-down that will follow the war's end. "We must change it into grim determination to win this other war, a test of the soul of everyone living in the United States."

Brig. Gen. DeWitt said: "I concur with Rear Adm. Theobald and add that we must have unity of purpose and co-ordination among our services now and throughout the war."

Three attempts to push through a resolution condemning the holding of war prisoners were defeated on the grounds the subject is a military one.

DOROTHY PRICE To Wed Roxbury B-17 Gunner

Roxbury Hero Home to Wed

Furloughs for most servicemen mean a chance to get home but it has an added attraction for T-Sgt. Saul M. Kupferman, 22, of Brunswick st., Roxbury, in giving him an opportunity to be married.

Back from 11 months overseas, during which he completed 30 missions as radio-man gunner aboard a Flying Fortress, Kupferman will be married Wednesday to his sweetheart of some years, Miss Dorothy Price, 20, of Wilmore st., Mattapan.

Overseas, he crowded in plenty of action, mostly on bombing missions over occupied Europe, as the ribbons of the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters prove.

A graduate of Roxbury Memorial High School, Kupferman was employed at the Quartermaster Depot in South Boston before entering the service in October, 1942.

45,000 Bay State Army Vote Seen

Although 450,000 absentee ballots have been prepared for distribution to Massachusetts men and women in the armed forces, an official today estimated only 45,000 would be used.

"If we get 10 per cent of the 450,000, that will be good," declared Daniel Mulcahy, assistant to Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook.

"I'll be greatly surprised should the figure reach 15 per cent, because there are a great many youngsters of 17, 18 and 19 years, also aliens, among the servicemen from this State."

Mulcahy said the last of the ballots were printed today and will be distributed to cities and towns by Tuesday. The largest batch, 100,000, went to Boston, he said.

Many duplications have been discovered among the 440,000 applications for absentee ballots received in Cook's office. A bundle of 119 requests from Brookline showed 40 duplications upon a recheck.

Mulcahy said the "repeats" were due to the fact relatives were filling applications as well as the servicemen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Herald-Tribune says that Maj. Gen. Alexander Surles, head of the Army Bureau of public relations, confirmed a report that the Army had banned from sale in post exchanges a guide to the Air Force which has as its frontispiece a portrait of President Roosevelt with the caption: "Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy."

Editions of the "Official Guide to the Army Air Force" in which the frontispiece appears were banned, the paper says, as "possible political propaganda in violation of the much criticized title five of the soldier's vote law."

It says the book, "regarded as one of the finest guides put out by the Army," has been printed in three editions, of which two editions totaling 525,000 copies bear the banned portrait and may not be sold in post exchanges.

Clare Luce Raps PAC

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (INS)—Rep. Clare Luce today charged that alleged attempts by the CIO Political Action Committee to write the nation's laws might lead, in seven or eight years, to complete abandonment of America's democratic process by law.

"It's a very dangerous tendency when the small, self-appointed group within labor gets up and tries to dominate not only the polls but the writing of legislation as well," asserted the blonde Connecticut congresswoman, whose reelection the PAC is opposing.

Commenting specifically upon assertions that PAC is helping re-draft the Murray-Kilgore conversion bill, the rapier-witted writer and playwright continued:

"The general danger of this type of dominance by a group of men who have not been elected to office, who don't have to be responsible to the people, and many of whom don't even have democratic elections in their own unions, is that it may cause us, little by little, to abandon our democratic process."

"This is exactly the way it began in Italy and Germany," she said. "The actions and aims of the PAC will, she believes, take 'plenty of time to be felt in force,' but she reiterated it was a threatening tendency when 'the PAC steps into the Senate and attempts to write legislation.'"

"You can imagine the uproar if the National Association of Manufacturers or the railroad group would do the same!" she added.

Brownell's arrival here coincided with the announcement of President Roosevelt's Hawaiian conferences with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. There was no comment from either Dewey or Brownell.

Brownell brought an optimistic picture of conditions in midwestern states after his 10-day visit to Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

Freack Fire Burns 18,000 Gals. Gas

COVINGTON, Ky., Aug. 11 (AP)—A fantastic fire burned furiously near here today on a 20-foot-square earth table, consuming upward of 18,000 gallons of 100-octane gasoline.

The gasoline was the contents of three 10-inch pipelines leading from a destroyed pump house to huge tanks high on a hill 500 or more yards away.

When the lines drain, the fire is expected to die. A big asbestos blanket, hung across a shallow gully leading from the fire-table, was used to skim the fire off, permitting the fuel to run harmlessly 1000 or more yards to the Ohio river.

AEF Ban on British Papers Laid to Unbalanced Politics

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—An article in Star and Stripes, quoting an Army supply officer as saying sale of British newspapers was banned in U. S. Army camps because of a short supply, brought a statement today from Maj. Edward Strode, executive public relations officer in this theater, that the order actually was issued under the soldier's vote law.

Maj. Strode said flatly whether it was a supply problem or not British newspapers came under the U. S. law which prescribes political news provided American soldiers must be "balanced."

The public relations officer said he had not heard of any complaint from the British newspapers, and he added it was obvious the Army had no control over soldiers buying papers outside Army stores. The New York Times and Chicago Tribune are sold in the Army stores, but Strode said they were special editions carrying no political news.

London newspapers have had nothing to say editorially about the ban, but all have given prominence to stories from New York correspondents telling of American criticism under such headlines as "News Ban Called Stupid," and "U. S. Camp Ban on British Papers May Be Lifted."

More Generals Turn on Hitler

By DANIEL DE LUCE MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two captured German generals, in statements appearing above their signatures today in the Soviet press, called on the German people and the army to end the war.

"Over 30 German divisions are doomed to extermination owing to an irresponsible Hitler's strategy," said the statement, by Lt. Gen. von Kurovski of the 110th infantry division and Maj. Gen. Lindemann of the 361st infantry division.

"There is but one issue—it is to stop the struggle and lay down arms," the statement said. "It is time to finish with Hitler and his clique. He who fights against Hitler fights for Germany."

The declaration, dated Aug. 6, professed complete agreement with a manifesto which 60 of their fellow generals reportedly signed July 22 repudiating Hitler.

Heavies Lash Oil, Rails, Air Bases

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—American heavy bombers joined tactical units today in support of Allied armies in France and smashed again at fuel dumps and airfields near Paris and rail yards in Alsace-Lorraine.

Before dawn 1000 heavy British bombers attacked submarine oil supplies, trains and other targets while Mosquitos gave Berlin residents another restless night by plunging two-ton blockbusters into the German capital.

Up to 1000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators bombed and strafed these objectives:

Fuel dumps at St. Florentin and Pacy on the Arancion river 75 miles southwest of Paris.

Airfields at Villécoublay on the outskirts of Paris, Toussus-le-Noble southwest of the capital, and Coulommiers, 30 miles east.

Rail yards at Mulhouse and Belfort in Alsace-Lorraine near the Rhine.

The Berlin radio reported daylight fighter bomber formations over southwest Germany, and single planes over northwest Germany, Franconia and Bavaria.

Weather was unusually good. British heavy bombers struck at oil storage depots for U-boats at Bordeaux and La Pallice—only bases left to Hitler's submarines.

Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire, off-battered lairs for the one-time terrors of the sea, are threatened so closely now by the American army they are virtually useless.

Mediterranean Air Force bombers, making their second straight night foray into Yugoslavia, attacked rail yards at Kraljevo.

Heat Heads For 92

The mercury headed into the 90's today to start Boston off on another spell of hot, sultry weather which will last through Sunday, when it is likely that thunder showers will bring relief.

The weather man indicated that the record reading of 95 for this date established Aug. 11, 1900, may be broken before sundown. He predicted thermometers in Boston would be red all the way up to the middle 90's—and past.

Showers late Sunday and Monday will give the section temporary relief, according to the forecast. High temperatures will be back Tuesday, however, and will last through Wednesday.

The mercury climbed seven degrees—from 79 to 86—in an hour. Tonight's lowest reading will be about 74, the weather man predicted.

By way of contrast, he disclosed that the record low for Aug. 12 was 54 degrees, established in 1879.

2 Strikes Ended, 23,000 Still Out

By the Associated Press

The number of workers idle because of labor disputes dropped today with the ending of one of the nation's major controversies.

Employees at four Paterson, N. J., auto plants of the Wright Aeronautical Corp. voted to return to work today.

The government may "at any moment" take over in the Midwest truck drivers' strike, Atty-Gen. Biddle said at Seattle, Wash. The area affected embraced Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, North and South Dakota and northwestern Wisconsin.

Another and similar trucking dispute ended when 774 AFL drivers in the York-Harrisburg, Lancaster, Pa., area agreed to immediate resumption of work.

In Detroit the CIO-United Automobile Workers arranged a mass meeting tonight in an effort to end a stoppage of 7000 at the General Motors' Chevrolet gear and axle division.

A new stoppage kept 1500 idle at four plants of the Warner Gear Co., Muncie, Ind., but settlement was announced of a dispute affecting 470 at the Spencer Lens Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The status quo continued in more than a score of other disputes keeping at least 23,000 idle.

Soldier Kidnap Of Cripple Told

The ordeal of a 20-year-old Cambridge girl, a cripple, who was abducted Aug. 2 and subjected to repeated attacks by a soldier, who carried her in his arms to a woods hideout in Weston, was disclosed today by Cambridge police.

Meanwhile, police prepared to appear in East Cambridge court to obtain complaints charging abduction and criminal attack against a AWOL soldier who was picked up by the Army the day following the crippled girl's experience.

The girl, who cannot walk without the aid of crutches, said she met the soldier in Cambridge the day of the abduction. He won her confidence, she said, by telling her he once had been a cripple. She related he told her how he had been cured and he thought he might help her recover the use of her legs.

TELLS OF TERROR

She said he asked her to go to Weston so they might consult a doctor there. They went by train, got off at Kendall Green and began to walk, she told police.

At a wooded spot, the girl said, her companion threw off his role of benign friend and picked her up in his arms. He threatened to kill her if she cried out. Helpless to fight him off, she was carried several miles, her abductor putting her down only to rest at intervals.

Finally they arrived at a railroad bridge. Underneath it, the girl told police, the deserter apparently had been living. A black civilian coat was hanging from a protuberance. Nearby was a kit containing comb, nail file and similar articles. A small supply of food was also there.

NIGHT OF TERROR

In that setting, perhaps five miles from the Kendall Green station, she suffered a night of terror and helpless submission to her brutal abductor.

The following day, the girl said, her attacker guided her through the woods to a point about two miles from the railroad station. She had no money. He gave her a dollar for train fare. Terrorized and exhausted by her experience she finally reached the station and boarded a train.

The girl collapsed after arriving at her home. She told her father of her experience and he went to the police.

The investigation was conducted by Chief Insp. Patrick T. Ready and Sgt. Joseph Breen, in cooperation with state and Weston police. They ascertained, Ready said, the girl's assailant had been captured by the Army Aug. 4.

Sailor Is Held In Woman Attack

His left eye partly closed and badly discolored, Seaman Jerry A. Paglio, 24, USNR, of Newark, N. J., today pleaded not guilty in municipal court to attempted criminal assault on a Cambridge woman in a downtown State st. alley.

Judge Jennie L. Barron held him in $10,000 for the grand jury after he waived examination.

According to Sgt. Andrew C. Hagerty, Paglio shoved Mrs. Mary J. Garvey, 40, of Chilton st., Cambridge, as she passed the alley early today. He said Paglio dragged her into the dark alley, blacked her eye and attempted to assault her.

Hagerty's testimony was interrupted by Mrs. Garvey, a stockily built woman, who said: "I gave him that black eye."

During the fracas, Mrs. Garvey's screams were heard by a charwoman in a nearby building, who called police. Paglio was arrested as he fled, Hagerty said.

Paglio told Judge Barron he had been ashore four months after serving six months at sea. He said he was assigned to Fargo Barracks, South Boston.

Dr. Alphonse Popoli took charge when the car reached the hospital yard, and now both mother and baby are reported as "doing fine."

Ford Blames War On Arms Profiteer

BIG BAY, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP)—One of the major post war tasks, according to Henry Ford, will be to level off the far-reaching hatreds that have been created by the present world conflict.

The noted industrialist took time out from a vacation with

Mrs. Ford at his summer lodge on the nearby Lake Superior shore to comment upon the progress of the war and the steps that must be taken to make it the last war.

"There can be no lasting peace where hatreds exist," he said and added that "hatreds will continue to arise as long as the causes of war are not rooted out and exposed.

"Remember that this war was not brought on by men who work for their living. It was caused by the individuals—many of them unfortunately citizens of our own country—who profit from the manufacture of munitions and explosives.

"And mark this well, until these individuals are exposed, there can be no peace—only another armistice. By exposing them I mean making them so well known that every school child can identify them by name and tell their purposes.

"If another Hitler comes into power after this war it will be because the war mongers have not been ousted and want another war; because this war with its terrific cost was fought solely for the benefit of the munitions makers and not for the preservation of democracy."

Ford said he did not believe it would be necessary to dismember Germany after the war in order to prevent another conflict.

Offices to Replace Vanderbilt Mansion

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—The 54-room stone Vanderbilt mansion, last of seven homes the family once maintained on Fifth ave., will be replaced by an office building.

Plans were filed by the William Waldorf Astor estate yesterday to erect a 15-story office building at the cost of $1,062,000 on the site at 51st st. and Fifth ave. opposite St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Built in 1891 by the late William H. Vanderbilt, the house was the home of the late Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt until it was sold in 1940 for $2,500,000.

End Walkout Over Faulty Bus

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 11—A disputed bus went out of service and a union official went back on the job today to end a brief work stoppage which tied up lines of the New England Transportation Co. for five hours. The company runs out of Providence to Fall River, New Bedford, Cape Cod, Boston, Worcester, Fitchburg and Hartford, Ct.

Drivers steadily called in "sick" shortly after James Caulfield, president of Local 988, Amalgamated Ass'n of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, had refused to take out the allegedly faulty bus and earned a suspension.

Company officials said the bus had been passed as safe by interstate commerce commission inspectors, although it sometimes jumped out of second gear. When line after line closed down, company officials agreed that the bus would be taken out.

2 Women Found Beaten to Death

CANDLER, N. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Summoned by neighbors, officers broke into a mountain home near here today and found the bodies of Mrs. Mack Thomas, 22, wife of a soldier, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Etta Thomas, 40, lying in pools of blood, their heads battered by a heavy instrument.

The younger woman's 18 months old daughter, Gail, had crawled on top of her mother's body and collapsed face downward. An older child lay on a bed. Both children, beaten on the head, were conscious and rushed to a hospital. Their recovery is doubtful.

Linton Morgan, 58-year-old textile worker, was sought on a murder warrant when a posse came upon his body under an apple tree, near his boyhood home, dead of a shotgun wound.

CIO Urges Radio Station Silenced

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The demand today of R. H. Thomas, member of the CIO-Political Action Committee and president of the United Auto Workers Union that a radio station be silenced because of "one-sided" New Deal and PAC criticism by commentators, will be included in the investigation of the Dies committee on un-American activities in connection with alleged collusion between government officials and the so-called "political aim of the New Deal."

Robert F. Stripling, chief investigator of the Dies committee, whose report showed that 77 government officials had been in communication with officers of the PAC via telephone calls and telegrams, asserted that a threat to "free speech" appeared to be involved.

EQUAL RADIO TIME

Stripling referred to the elaborate book of instructions issued by the PAC on how to secure time on radio programs, including directions to fourth-term campaign workers to get in touch with James L. Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Emil Corwin, former radio expert for the Department of Agriculture, prepared the PAC radio instruction pamphlet. There has been direct telephone communication between a PAC official and Charles Denny, counsel for the FCC, according to Dies committee records, plus six calls to another FCC official from the PAC.

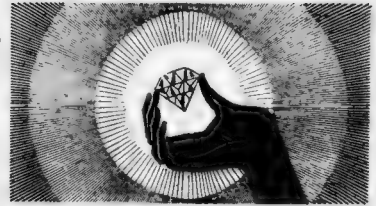

In asking the FCC that the license of station WHKC, of Columbus, O., be revoked "on the ground it is not operating in the public interest" and demanding that radio scripts of its commen-

He Outwits Japs On Guam 2 Years

PEARL HARBOR, Aug. 11 (AP)—Chief Radioman George Ray Tweed and an American "lost garrison," whose bravery he was the first to recount, were vindicated today.

For 31 months the 42-year-old Tweed lived in precarious flight on Japanese-held Guam, after escaping from Agaña when the enemy occupied it Dec. 10, 1941. The persistent Nipponese hunted him like an animal; finally detailing a 50-man patrol. Capture, often near, would have meant death.

Behind him were burning memories of Navy and Marine friends who died, without retreat, in the stubborn but hopeless first defense of the island. He was sustained by the constant hope of rescue by advancing American forces.

PROMOTED ON SHIP

Tweed had seen proud, cruel, vindictive Japanese forces rolling to victory past his buddies' bodies. The conquerors' final remnants were ragged and emaciated.

Reinstated in the U. S. Navy and promoted aboard the rescue ship, Tweed was returned to the United States, reunited in San Diego, Cal., with his wife, Mary Francis Tweed, 27, and their sons, Ronald, 9, and Robert, 3. They had not seen him since October, 1941, when they left Guam.

Mrs. Tweed said she never doubted that her husband would return, although after two years searching the Japanese had listed him as dead.

Mrs. Tweed's mother, Mrs. W. H. Sudderth, found her son had aged so much she did not recognize him. His hair silvered, he lost 30 pounds.

He gained back 10 pounds in the first five days after his rescue, by a combatant ship off Guam, 10 days before the American landings. An American pilot had spotted him standing near the remote cave where he spent the latter part of his hermitage, living on rainwater and food obtained in night forays.

FOUGHT TO THE LAST

Tweed said the Japanese landed on Guam Dec. 9, after two days' bombing and strafing.

"We had so few guns, so little ammunition," he said. "We had only about 200 Marines, a few scattered naval personnel and the island defense company."

"The Marines in Cabras island, armed only with machine guns actually repulsed the Japs until their ammunition gave out."

"A couple of one-pound guns on ships in the harbor fired to the last, while a single machine gun on Agaña Heights, above the town—the only 'anti-aircraft' battery we had—exhausted its ammunition."

With a buddy, Tweed escaped to the "bush." His companion and three other Navy men were captured and killed by the Japanese.

"Several times they learned where I was hiding, but each time I managed to escape, once by less than a minute," Tweed said.

Bogus A-11 Coupons Have Glaring Errors

CHIEF GEORGE R. TWEED

Mopping Up Guam Like Rabbit Hunt

By JOHN R. HENRY

THIRD AMPHIBIOUS CORPS HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Aug. 12 (Aug. 11 U. S. Time)—(AP)—"Via Navy radio!—Fighting on Guam developed into a human 'rabbit hunt' today after Maj. Gen. Roy Geiger officially pronounced the island 'secure.'"

Scattered remnants of Japanese troops, hiding in jungle thickets and caves on northern Guam, were the rabbits; third amphibious Corps Marines and soldiers, the hunters.

Leathernecks and doughboys of the harbor and three forts had trained Doberman Pinschers to help flush the hiding Japanese. It was estimated more than 1000 enemy soldiers were at large.

Invasion

on their end of this huge maneuver by throwing a third bridgehead across the Orne river and storming to within half a mile of Thury-Harcourt, 13 miles below Caen.

Two other powerful battering rams, set up by the Canadian First Army, were driving against Rommel's gun-studded anti-tank screen—one last reported within five miles of Falaise and the other thrust east in the Vimont area below Troarn.

Headquarters said hard fighting raged all of yesterday in the Vimont area.

The Germans are seeking to rush reinforcements and supplies from Belgium, Germany and eastern France, but this traffic came under heavy aerial attack.

TOUGH FIGHT FOR BREST

Fighter bombers struck without let-up at rail movements westward from Antwerp, Brussels, Metz, Strasbourg, Lille, Sedan and other points east of the Seine, the communiqué announced.

Consolidation of position at Nantes gives the Americans a solid flank at least 50, possibly 100, miles deep at their outer edge of Rommel's defense area.

It was disclosed a Polish armored division is fighting in the Falaise sector and the Canadian Second Infantry Division, veteran of the Dieppe raid, forms part of the Canadian First Army.

The fight for Brest mounted in intensity after an American column drew up before the port and joined other forces battling there a week.

Elements of three German divisions maintained a strong resistance in the big port and field reports said it seemed likely that its reduction would take as long as Cherbourg.

Its inland defenses include four forts and eight big batteries north of the harbor and three forts and 12 batteries south of the river to help flush the hiding Japanese. The Germans there also have some 100 heavy anti-aircraft guns and more than 250 light anti-aircraft guns, all usable as land artillery.

Inside St. Malo's rocky fortress, which sheds artillery shells like a tin roof sheds hail, the German garrison stubbornly held out. A dispatch from Associated Press War Correspondent Hal Boyle said in a telephone conversation yesterday with American officers the Germans agreed it would be foolish to fight on but added that was what they intended to do.

Some of the German soldiers, however, were reported shooting down their officers.

Leaving for France

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 11 (AP)—Twelve Nazi troop trains were reported by the Free Danish Press Service today to have passed southward in the past 24 hours, indicating a heavy movement of troops from Denmark probably toward France.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey received a letter addressed to him at the White House with a neatly printed reminder that he doesn't live there.

The letter, sent from Brooklyn, was addressed "To the Governor of the United States, Mr. Dewey, White House, Washington, D. C." It reached here stamped twice "not at White House."

Few Yankee Fliers Crack Under Strain

By PRESTON GROVER

AN AMERICAN AIRBASE, ENGLISH MIDLANDS, July 28 (delayed) (AP)—Although combat pressure on American airmen has let up considerably during recent months, flight missions over enemy soil still are tough assignments.

Sometimes Yank fliers do crack, but such cases are more rare now than six months ago when the Luftwaffe was really tough. All too often a raid finished with 30 to 60 bombers missing. Those were black days.

I visited a heavy bomber group to find out what was happening now the heat has abated. I found many airmen still get such a warm reception in German skies on deep daylight missions they groan in mass formation.

But they settle down to get the thing over with. The change-over from the black days is so marked physicians who once spent much time on "psycho" cases have seen this condition reduced by half. Combat crews today feel chance of completing their "tour" is far more than even; then they'll get that coveted six weeks' home leave.

Six months ago the men didn't feel they had that chance. As a matter of fact, many didn't have much chance. Then one squadron would manage to get just one bomber crew through its tour without death or casualties; other crews got a part of the fliers through. A big balance are dead or prisoners in Germany.

But there are still headaches for Air Force doctors. Some men develop dysentery that refuses to yield to anything—which is uncomfortable on a nine or ten-hour mission with the enemy attacking hour after hour.

NOT ENOUGH SLEEP

Sometimes the dysentery is accompanied by vomiting. Once the men are assured by doctors they have neither ulcers nor amoebic dysentery, they continue at work pains and all.

Combat orders often pile mission on mission—then the men don't get enough sleep. Those who think a crew bombing only by daylight sleeps through the night are mistaken. Preparations for raids begin soon after midnight, and there is scarcely a minute during the next 12 to 17 hours when the fliers can rest.

After a raid they spend one, two, three hours undergoing interrogation before tumbling into bed. Some are so worked up they can't sleep.

An outstanding development here has been the medical rest house—a fine old English manor house with about 70 rooms, located in a 500-acre, partly wooded park. When men begin to show combat fatigue, they are sent there for a week or two. There, they rise when they want—or sleep all day at will. There's no fixed hours. Many spend the first couple of days sleeping.

Schacht, Neurath Reported Purged

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter was quoted today by the Berlin radio as saying the new German scrap-the-barrel manpower decrees were only the beginning and declared "this time we mean business."

A Moscow broadcast reported "mass arrests in Germany, not only among general and senior officers, but also among important civil servants." Himmler continued his purge.

The Soviet radio reported latest victims of the purge included Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Nazi economist, banker and minister without portfolio, and Baron Konstantin von Neurath, high Nazi once reported being groomed as Hitler's successor.

Campbell Announces Plate Returns Drop

Fewer motorists are turning in their registration plates this year, William F. Campbell, chief accountant of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, announced today. Only 32,194 sets of plates were returned in the first seven months this year, as against 34,549 in the corresponding period a year ago. In the first seven months this year, fees collected by the registry totaled $5,723,439, a drop of $1728 from 1943.

Papers Praised In Salvage Drive

Paying high tribute to New Englanders for their successful salvage campaigns, W. Thomas Hoyt, WPB deputy director of salvage, and William C. Carr, national chairman of the magazine publishers' salvage committee, said today that Boston's efforts are so well organized that they serve as a model for waste paper collections throughout New England.

Much credit is due to the support given by the newspapers. Carr told officials at a conference here.

"In our opinion, Boston newspapers are one of the outstanding groups in the entire country in their co-operation with the salvage campaign," he added.

Hoyt called upon all patriotic New Englanders to redouble their efforts at paper salvage in order to give the armed services the paper they need and must have.

It was revealed at the conference that the campaign to urge New England farmers to cut extra wood for manufacture into paper had been so successful that similar campaigns will be started in the West and South.

Jefferson ave., Everett. Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Dick, graduated from Everett High in '28, with Jackie Fisher, was a meat cutter in Blair's Foodland, Washington st., Roxbury. "Terry Glynn was one of my customers," he said. To Maurice Berg and staff: "Keep taking your cuts." Jarvis had gained 15 pounds to 170, was feeling chipper. "I'm getting married when I get back home," he said, but wouldn't name the girl. "Just learned that 124 Everett boys had returned home from No. Africa," he said. "Wish we could have gone into action with them. Must be a swell feeling to have a dirty job finished."

CRACK ATHLETE

Sgt. Julius Holl, Jr., 22, of 22 Fowler st., Westfield, Julius attended Westfield Trade, worked in Van Norman Machine and Tool. ("How's everything, Pete Beaudrey?") He wanted to be remembered to the gang around the Meadow st. candy store, liked the letters sent him by Doris Kuskick, 192 Franklin st., Holyoke. Brother Emil, 23, is with the infantry in Italy.

Egt. Edward (Red) Ellsworth, 27, Church st., Northboro. Parents: Mr. and Mrs. William. Red was a crack fullback and basketball player at St. John's High.

Pvt. Edward L. Jones

Pvt. Julio Salvatore
Providence

Worcester, worked in Ellsworth's (his parents') restaurant in Northboro. He was anxious to get back home to wed Marie Brady, 115 Lincoln st., Worcester. Brother Charles, 35, was in the Army in the States.

Pvt. Julio Salvatore, 23, of 41 Wallace st., Providence. Mother, Mrs. Elsie. Julio was with the CCC 2 1/2 years, later worked at Quonset Point, married Lena Torres, who's with his mother. He's an ambulance driver with the medics here. Twin brother, Albert, was in the same outfit but was discharged before they came overseas. Brother Gino, 18, had just joined the Army.

These boys have been in action some time. This correspondent hopes to meet them again in Normandy, in as high spirits as they were before D-Day.

3-Ship Naming Will Set Record

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11 (AP)—The 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Anietam and the 13,000-ton cruisers Chicago and Los Angeles will be christened in a triple ceremony at the Philadelphia Navy Yard Sunday, R. Adm. M. F. Draemel announced today.

Christening of the three fighting ships, totaling more than 53,000 displacement tons, will mark the largest launching or christening of warships at one time and place in American history and probably in the world, the Navy reported.

The three vessels, built simultaneously in neighboring drydocks, will be named in consecutive ceremonies which will take the place of the customary launchings in which ships slide down the ways. Water will be let into the drydocks beforehand, and the ships will be floated out later.

DAUGHTER'S PICTURE

He carried a colored portrait of daughter Joan, 7, and was very proud of it and her. He talked of his old pal: Ralph Wood, the newsdealer; Bob Martin, with the Air Corps; Tom O'Toole, a cop from 12 Carpenter st., South Boston; Marion (masculine) Chetty, 5 Winthrop ave., Beverly; Ray, Pontil of Royal st., fighting in Italy; young Mal McBride, whose father operates the tinsil-lubricating emporium in the square "I'd like to be toying down a couple in McBride's right now," he smiled.

Pfc. Valentine Gardella, 44, of 74 Quincy. Perhaps the oldest Pfc in United Nations' ranks. He was with the Italian army in World War I, came to America in '30. Nobody seems to know if he's a citizen, least of all himself. But "he's the best damn cook in the whole division," and although he's been on his way out several times for being over-age, his papers never go through "and won't until we get a better cook," which all agree is impossible.

PIE FOR READING MAIL

Gardella cooked at the Hotel Bradford, Coconut Grove, finally at Gray's Bakery, Quincy. His "Paysans" at home are Marcel, at Gray's Bakery, and Lawrence Berry, 43 Cushing st., Wollaston. "He write but I no read," says Gardella of Berry. So Tucker charges him a pie for reading his mail.

Pvt. William E. Bates, 22, of 290 Davis st., New Bedford. Parents: Mr. Adelard and Mrs. Blanche Bussiere. Bill played football and baseball at New Bedford High. Before our cave-man ancestors learned words, they made signs.
They "talked" with their hands. And we still do! Guess "handy" says "Which one?" Lover's "handy" says "She's wonderful." 3-Ring "handy" says "Time for Ballantine." PURITY, BODY and FLAVOR in every glass. America's finest since 1840.

You're making it a habit to hurry your Ballantine "empties" back to the store? Because you know bottles are so scarce? Thanks!

Most of Hitler Army Tipsy, Ready to Flee, Says Belgian

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ

IRUN, Spain, Aug. 11 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Jean T'Kindt, who crossed the Spanish frontier a month after he fled from his home in Belgium, said today the bulk of German troops have been transferred from coastal cities of southwestern France and those who remain are "drunk most of the time."

"They sell every piece of German army equipment they can get to buy wine," he added. "Each night they sing German songs while drinking. They tell anyone who will listen they are afraid they won't get back alive."

Five Russians, once prisoners of war forced to volunteer for service in the German Navy, told similar stories after fleeing into Spain.

They described the remaining German garrisons in southwestern France as "drunkards, men plotting desertions and a handful of young fanatics."

The young Belgian said he left Biarritz Wednesday. He declared German soldiers he saw traveling from Brittany to the frontier "have no morale."

"Near the German front line," he declared, "they still are disciplined but in the south only a few

PSORIASIS

Many people want so much to wear sport clothes—even though they themselves do not indulge in sports—but cannot do so because of unsightly psoriasis lesions. Are you one of this group? If so, try SIROIL. SIROIL tends to remove the crusts and scales of psoriasis which are external in character and located on the outer layer of the skin. If or when your psoriasis lesions recur, light applications of SIROIL will help keep them under control. Applied externally SIROIL does not stain clothing or bed linen, nor does it interfere in any way with your daily routine. Try it. Certainly it's worth a trial, particularly since it's offered to you on a two-week satisfaction-or-money-refunded basis.

Go-to-School Drive Needs Support of Parents

THE United States Office of Education, with the assistance of a number of other Government agencies, has opened a national go-to-school drive.

The urgency of such a campaign was shown a month ago by a survey that revealed a decline of more than a million students in high school attendance.

Heeding the call of war production industries, most of these youngsters had turned in their books and gone to work.

And, needless to say, a great many of them were as much attracted by inflated wages as by patriotic slogans.

Teen-agers were too immature to look ahead and see that they would be among the first to leave factories when lay-offs were necessary and the least certain of permanent employment.

Fortunately, even though the termination of the war may be only a matter of months, it is not too late to remind the youthful workers that they belong in classrooms.

As Miss Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau in Washington, has said:

"Young people will be much more helpful in winning the war if they are well trained."

"When peace comes we shall have the greatest job we have ever had to help Americans get the many services they need for good living."

"School is the very best place to get basic training for this."

But the Federal Government cannot hope to accomplish much without the support and assistance of parents.

Fathers and mothers who know from experience how difficult it is for unskilled persons to obtain desirable jobs and living wages in normal times should pass on the knowledge to their children.

Sons and daughters will thank them for it repeatedly in the years to come.

New York's Big Airport

IN NEW YORK Mayor LaGuardia has announced plans for the completion of Idlewild, one of the world's truly great airports.

With the aid of radar and other technical devices born of the war, airlines operating from this huge terminal will maintain their schedules with railroad precision in fog, rain, snow or wind.

Moreover, Idlewild will be large enough to accommodate all types of planes, existing or imagined. And it will put New York in close touch with every major city on the globe.

The cost of the air project will be in the neighborhood of $47,900,000, with the Federal Government contributing the substantial sum of $9,250,000.

Uncle Sam's donation should interest Boston and Massachusetts.

It means that Washington is helping New York to become the principal aviation city on the East coast.

It also means that a goodly portion of Bay State tax money is going into the development of an airport that threatens to eclipse our own Boston flying field.

One of the biggest mistakes our Massachusetts Senators and Representatives ever made was their failure to obtain Federal money for the Boston Airport.

If only a few of the millions that were squandered on inland airfields, which will probably pass out of existence when the war ends, had been given to Boston we would have an airport worthy of our size and importance, and we would not have to worry about New York competition.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—One thing that baffles me is the way a lot of people, who presumably should have something more pressing to worry about, keep worrying over whether Wendell Willkie will come out in support of Thomas E. Dewey.

I know a fellow named Gus Boyle, who lives over a delicatessen store in Brooklyn. He is a very worthy character. But no one seems to care a hoot whether he supports Dewey or not.

And yet Mr. Boyle controls as many votes as Mr. Willkie. He controls one—his own.

If you ask me, this is a pretty cavalier way to treat Mr. Boyle, because he may yet become a household word. There is talk of making him the subject of a great, if not noble, experiment.

A group of learned scientists from Flatbush have made him a flattering offer. They desire to ply him with liquor in efforts to determine if it is true that a watched Boyle never gets potted.

Note: That gag belongs to Mr. R. B. Sullivan, the writer, and I wish no credit for it whatsoever.

THE POINT I am trying to make, if I can only scrape some of this fuzz off my mind, is that there seems to be no earthly reason for any concern over whether Willkie.

Nevertheless there is. It spills all over, and even squirts in your eye, if you don't duck.

It must be particularly trying to Gov. Dewey. Hardly an interviewer or politician visits Albany these days without dragging up Willkie.

Of course, Mr. Dewey has never seen fit to confide in me—which, personally, I consider a grave mistake—but I would not be surprised if he is getting fed up. It must be a severe physical strain to keep his face deadpan at every mention of Willkie.

Nearly everyone who has audience with the Republican nominee goes Willkie-curious. They talk about this and that and, "have you come across any good trends lately?" and then they say:

By the way, what are the chances of Wendell Willkie coming out for you?"

Mr. Dewey, being a gentleman of the old school, never retorts, "Nuts to Willkie!" although many feel it must be a terrible temptation. His answer is always courteously but non-committal.

Close pals of Willkie report that he is positively reveling in this. They intimate he helps keep in shape by hugging himself for 20 minutes night and morning in place over the anxiety he has stirred up.

The whole thing seems inexplicable because Willkie has no political machine; no power or influence politically to speak of. I have searched and searched but have not yet found anybody who could explain what difference it would make, one way or the other, whether Willkie announced for Dewey, denounced Dewey, or just remained silent contemplating his paunch.

Maybe Willkie has become a habit. If you put something in your coffee it might cure it.

MR. THOMAS KEEP, head chauffeur at the British Embassy, is having girl trouble.

It does not stem from any crossing in love because Mr. Keep feels that romance is too undignified for an ambassadorial limousine pilot. He is a tall, taciturn gentleman who would just as soon think of leaping on the back of Lord Halifax and yelling, "Buck, buck, how many fingers do I hold up?" as he would of cooing love.

The trouble comes from a group of young ladies of the British Auxiliary Territorial Service. They are more commonly known as "ATS" although a few wags argue that it seems a shame to waste the "B" in British in applying the abbreviation.

It seems the Embassy has been suffering from a manpower shortage and Mr. Keep found himself without adequate assistance in maintaining and operating the official cars. So a group of "ATS" was assigned to him.

Mr. Keep is now muttering that he is afflicted by an epidemic of dented fenders and scuffed tires. He does not care right out and say so, but he implies that the British Empire would be better off if his "ATS" would go to war.

MOST STORIES about Mrs. Roosevelt are untrue. I have an idea there must be a gag factory that turns them out because they pretty well follow a pattern.

The First Lady, for all the territory she covers, is pretty naive. Here is a true story which seems to illustrate the point.

Mrs. Roosevelt encountered a young woman she knew in an elevator the other day. The girl was with a sailor whom she promptly introduced.

The job was so overcome he could only gush when Mrs. Roosevelt extended her hand. So the First Lady tried to put him at his ease.

"I see you are in the Navy," she said. "I have several boys in the Navy myself."

I have grown weary of studying the wall paper design in your room. A modest appreciation of my own worth forbids my doing business with your office any longer. Unless you grab me right away, I will go elsewhere and leave your paper flat on its back right here in the middle of a hard summer and your whole life hereafter will be one vast surging regret. The line forms on the left; applications considered in the order in which they are received; triflers and professional flirts save stamps. Write, wire or call above address."

PLEASE NOTE: Champagne is 202 years old. It originated in the Benedictine abbey, Hautecombe, France. It first became popular in 1815 because of publicity received when the Allied troops who had defeated Napoleon were marching to Paris. These troops passed at Rheims and sacked the city's wine cellars. They drank more than 600,000 bottles of champagne. Their enthusiastic reports as to the quality of this wine made it famous. Don't know if our troops in this war have sacked any wine cellars. But while passing through the country in the vicinity of Florence it is probable that our boys sampled some of the Chianti, for which that section is famous.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11—Geraldine Fitzgerald's sparkling performance as Edith Galt, second wife of President Woodrow Wilson, creates a new and fresh interest in her.

Fitting, I think, that Jack Warner should again lend her to Darryl Zanuck, for he did more to bring out her talents as an actress than any other producer. Jack, who is pleased over her success as if he had made "Wilson" (and I mean that), has loaned her for the femme lead in "Hangover Square."

Laird Cregar had a change of heart and is back in the cast. George Sanders ditto. Cregar went on eight weeks' suspension, but apparently thought better of his revolt and is back on the lot.

Certainly he will have plenty to occupy him, for Lesser has an ambitious program. There's "Three's a Family," already completed, the next "Tarzan" opus, "Civilian Clothes," a Broadway show, and "Crazy to Dance," a saga of the bobby socks.

ALBERT DEKKER is a good actor and in the right parts I'm for him. But I'm a Swedish ventriloquist if Dekker is the boy to follow Bill Boyd into the "Hop Along Cassidy" roles. However, since the casting is up to Harry Sherman and not one of my little duties, he will probably make up his own mind. Harry tells me he is resuming the series without Boyd because they could not get together on another deal—but there has been such a widespread demand for the Westerns that he cannot ignore it. I understand Boyd offered Sherman $50,000 for the right to produce the Cassidy himself—but it was no go.

MILDRED NATWICK who did such a really swell job in "Blythe Spirit" with Clifton Webb, has just signed a contract to play the role of Mrs. Minnett in "The Enchanted Cottage." She came West just to make a test for John Cromwell, but Producer Harriet Parsons asked me not to say anything until she was actually signed. Well, the job is hers and it is the opinion of those who have seen the test that she will be a great addition to the movie.

IF SHERMAN BILLINGSLEY, owner of the famed Stork Club, ever had any doubt how many friends he has among the newspaper folk, he knows now how he stands. The New York columnists and editorial writers expressed themselves over the charge Mayor LaGuardia made that Sherman owed the city $181,000.29 for unpaid taxes on food and drink in his cafe. The mayor posted a city agent at the popular Stork Club and before an hour Sherman had ten times that amount offered him by people whom he has befriended. He claims he doesn't owe the tax and as a matter of principle will fight it, even if he has to take it to the Supreme Court.

"If ice women can stand being seen with you men and those TIES you wear, you can certainly forgive us our hats!"

JOHN BRAHM, the director, was at a party the other night when a woman came up and said: "I don't think you remember me." Brahm looked at her a moment and then said politely: "Of course I do. You are Mrs. William Dieterle."

Whereupon Mrs. Dieterle came back with: "I really didn't think you would remember me, Mr. Prentiss!"

TWO BROADCASTS Ebe Daniels made from the battle front of France were thrilling. You could hear the guns, she was so close to the actual fighting. She was with the wounded boys and the doctors as they were carried off the field. She made a special plea for blood plasma and said there isn't nearly enough. William Randolph Hearst, Junior, wrote the finest plea for more blood that has been written, in his articles from France. Anyone, other than those who are anemic or sick, should give blood now, for it is so necessary to aid the boys. Babo says the doctors and nurses are doing wonderful work.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Oscar Homolka are the parents of a nine-pound boy—their second child; Louis Hayward, out of uniform, night clubbing with Peggy Morrow; Mrs. Lorena Barker, Donny's widow, starts Monday in an exclusive position with J. Walter Thompson, a fact that pleases all the film studios; Bill Connelman, Jr.'s mother has received word that he is a prisoner of war. He was a member of a bomber squadron; Mrs. Ted Corder, the former Mrs. Buck Jones, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Noah Beery; Alexander Knox, the screen idol of the moment, has been seeing Doris Nolan; the gal rooting with Maxie Rosenbloom at the ball game was Peggy Ryan.

LINDA DARNELL leaves on a vacation to Mexico City with Faverell Marley and she hopes to make a picture in Mexico City. She speaks Spanish fluently; Larry Parks, Columbia actor, goes East to marry Betty Garrett, New York actress; Ann Revere, the mother in "Song of Bernadette," got a house $1000 cheaper because the owner was a fan; Jack Haley celebrated his birthday yesterday in Rome; Millicent Jasekel, mother of young Richard Jachet, and Mikhail Rasumny of "For Whom the Bell Tolls" fame are an item. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Smart Set Hingham Ceremony

By BETTY ALDEN

MISS ELIZABETH BURNHAM of Hingham and Nelson Curtis, Jr., of Milton, who have set the date for Aug. 26, are the envy of their friends for they've managed to find an apartment. It is in Milton and will be ready to move into when they return from honeymooning.

Their wedding will be a picturesque affair in the Old Ship Church in Hingham, one of New England's oldest historical churches, and will be followed by a garden reception. Miss Burnham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Burnham of Hingham, graduated from the Mary A. Burnham School in Northampton.

Mr. Curtis, son of Mrs. Benjamin W. Estabrook of Milton and Mr. Nelson Curtis of Waban, has received a medical discharge from the Navy and is an engineer at the Bethlehem Hingham shipyards. He was in the class of '41 at Harvard where his clubs included Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770, Phoenix S. K. and the Harvard Club.

His sister, Joan, one of Boston's popular and vivacious post debs, has an interesting war job as a civilian worker at the Navy Supply School in Cambridge.

MRS. ROBERT IVERSEN (Mary Elizabeth Keever) of Pittsburgh, who has been visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Henry F. Keever of Auburndale, left for her home yesterday. During her visit she and her sister Leah spent several weeks at Harwich. Mr. Iversen is in the Navy.

MRS. H. SPENCER POTTER — Summers at Marblehead.

AMATEUR SAILORS on shore leave glimpsed at lunch or at work on their boats during Race Week at Marblehead include Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Loring, Jr. (Rosemary Merrill), getting the Pompano shipshape for the international class races; Mr. and Mrs. John Blodgett excitedly telling of the purchase of a new schooner; Peggy Whitney of Nahant staying at the Corinthian for race week festivities; Edward Ginn, one of the crew on John S. Lawrence's Moose; Marjorie Watson and George O'Day, a date for the Eastern dance; Peggy, Ellen and Barbara Lane Connolly, a trio of attractive young racing fans, on deck bright and early every morning; ex-Gov. and Mrs. Frank Allen entertaining yachting guests at dinner; and June Taylor winning admiration for her expert diving at the Corinthian pool.

Glimpsed Mrs. Howard Wheeler, in nifty white sharkskin shorts and gay wool cardigan, at the Eastern buffet lunch. She and Mr. Wheeler have a year round house at Marblehead not far from Miramar, the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Shrigley. Also at Miramar are Mrs. H. Spencer Potter (Virginia Shrigley) and her little boy while Capt. Potter is overseas. Lt. Wilfred Shrigley, Jr., who is in the Air Corps, and his fiancée, Ellena Donell of Salem, have their hearts set on an autumn wedding, but the date depends on his orders.

Lack of Water Ruining Victory Gardens

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head, Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.)

Neglect in watering gardens, despite all the warnings listed here in the last several weeks, has resulted in serious setbacks for many Victory Gardeners. If gardens haven't been watered much up to now, it isn't likely that they'll be further productive because it is too late in the season now to make up the lost time.

On the other hand there are a lot of gardens showing up well because they were well planned and cared for.

Gardeners who have late potatoes must still give them so attention. Many patches are still showing bad infestations of aphids, and the leaf hopper is also getting worse. These insects' attacks plus the effects of dry weather will cause premature ripening and reduced yields. Late blight is due and should be controlled.

This disease can be recognized by a mold-like gray fuzz on the underneath side of the leaf. Do not wait for the blight to attack. Spray or dust with Bordeaux and keep all new growth covered.

Another pest has arrived in the tomato patch, namely the tomato horn-worm. This huge green worm is hard to detect until it has stripped the plant.

Cucumbers are coming fast in some gardens and can be used before they go by. Use the extra cucumbers now while they have high quality. The following recipe will give good results and is known as the quick brine method.

1—Select even, small sized cucumbers 2 to 2 1/2 ins. long. 2—Wash and rinse 4 quarts of cucumbers. 3—Make pickle solution of the following parts by measure: 1 pint of water, 2 pints vinegar, 3 cups sugar. 4—Put 4 teaspoons of whole mixed spice into a cheese cloth bag. 5—Place cucumbers and spice bag into the solution and cook at a slow boil for 10 minutes. 6—Remove spice bag and pack pickles into clean jar and cover with solution. 7—Seal at once and store in a cool place. Other recipes for pickles can be had by sending to your Country Home Demonstration Agent.

"Guess My Age!"

New Kind of Face Powder Makes Her Look Years Younger!

ONCE this lovely girl looked quite a bit older. Some people actually thought she was rapidly approaching middle age . . .

For she was the innocent victim of an unflattering face powder! It was such an unkind powder—treacherous and sly. It showed up every tiny line in her face—accented every little skin fault—even seemed to exaggerate the size of her pores.

But look at her now! Can you guess her age? Would you say she is 20-30-35?

At last she has found a face powder that really flatters her skin—makes it look younger and more enchanting!

Why Lady Esther Face Powder Is So Flattering

Lady Esther Face Powder is extra flattering because it's made differently. It isn't just mixed, just sifted, in the usual way. It's blown by Twin Hurricanes—blended with the speed and power of hurricanes—to look clearer, smoother and more flattering on your skin!

Because of this patented, exclusive method of hurricane blending, the texture of Lady Esther Face Powder is much smoother and finer than ordinary powder. The first touch of your puff spreads a delicate film of beauty on your skin, hiding little lines, little blemishes. And Lady Esther Face Powder clings longer, too—clings four long hours!

But the most exciting difference is in the shades. Lady Esther shades have a subtle new quality—because the color is blown in by hurricanes. Many women say that the Lady Esther shades are so fresh and alive that ordinary powder shades seem dull and drab by comparison.

Living Proof—In Your Own Mirror!

Why choose a face powder because it is expensive, or because of a clever package? Judge it only by its appearance on your skin!

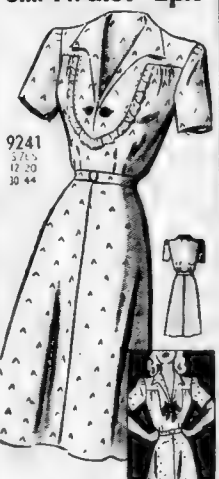

Try Lady Esther Face Powder! Get the smallest size box, if you like—but try it! When you see how much smoother and younger it makes your skin look—it's time enough to get the largest and most economical size. But to prove this is the most flattering powder you have ever used, get the small-size box today!

ALP Drops Mask; Okays Democrats

By SANFORD E. STANTON

Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—Dropping all pretense, the Communist-dominated American Labor party stood revealed today as the left wing of the Democratic party—and apparently well on the way to becoming both wings and tail feathers of what once was one of the two major political parties in the United States.

Both left and right wing factions of the Democrats met here and the left wingers, led by Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee, nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt for President; Harry S. Truman, of Missouri, for vice-president, and Robert F. Wagner for U. S. senator from the State of New York.

By coincidence, these three nominees happen to have been designated by the right wing Democrats in advance.

To make the tie more binding the ALP-PAC meeting also designated 47 men and women for members of the electoral college. Again, but hardly by coincidence, the names approved by Hillman were those selected by the Democrats.

While all this was going on right wing Democrats were nominating four candidates for the Supreme Court bench.

Assurances of ALP-PAC support for their judicial slate were obtained by the right wing Tammanyites, it was said, after several of their leaders had made an urgent appeal to Mayor La Guardia, who, in turn, was said to have persuaded Rep. Vito Marcantonio that this was no time for any sign of a rift between the left and right wingers.

In conservative and independent Democratic circles it was freely predicted that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, heading the Republican national ticket, and Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran, GOP nominee for senator, would cut heavily into the normal Democratic vote.

"Sidney Hillman's PAC and Marcantonio's ALP are making thousands of Republican voters out of good Democrats daily," more than one Democrat said.

It's Heidt Joy For Boston Fans

By DON WARD

Horace Heidt and that jolly bunch of boys and girls he calls his Musical Knights are now appearing, singing and dancing on the RKO-Boston stage, much to the delight of all beholders.

Mr. Heidt has been "up there" for more years than most of his colleagues. Reason is that he was among the very first to make the playing of popular music meet the requirements of new-style vaudeville—and do right by each.

Sweet, hot or boogie-woogie, Mr. Heidt exploits 'em all, then piles up with a gleeful, dancing, skits and the audience-participating "Treasure Chest Revue," which is nothing more nor less than the old-fashioned parlor game of musical chairs hyped up with good modern lucky-doke. And right here Mr. Heidt shows that the emcee chore was made for him.

But he is not enough, and big enough not to hog the limelight in the tireless manner of most minstrels. His soloists are kept busy. Bob Matthews and Virginia Rees do the vocals, only it is more like real singing. Doris Mudge raps out a tap routine that is positively educational; Shorty Sherach leads the band in a trumpet number that hits the roof; Jimmy Sims throws a trombone tone that is always sonorous and musical; Jess Slattery is an accomplished and famous boogie-woogie pianist (not too much on the figured bass), and there is Fred Lowery, still king of the whistlers.

He can actually whistle bass!

Yes, indeed, the Heidt show is a grand and happy entertainment. Clean, too, if you care about that.

On the K-B-even just arrived, is the comedy, "Johnny Doesn't Live Here Anymore." Simone Simon and James Ellison are featured—and it's all about a young lady that runs a room only to find there, a lot of men with the same idea about the property. It is pretty far-fetched, but it is all in fun and more than mildly amusing.

Bette Davis Scores New Triumph in Met Drama

By JOYCE DANA

Mrs. Skeffington is a role Betty Davis can glory in. While "Mr. Skeffington" is the title of the film at the Met, it is Bette's own little tour de force, and she makes almost every minute of the more than two hours' unrelenting her own.

One thing must be conceded. Not since her role as the obnoxious Mildred in Maugham's "Of Human Bondage" has Miss Davis flinched from playing the most detestable and shrewish of women. Fanny Skeffington is a composite of all the portraits in the Davis gallery.

Your enthusiasm for the film will be in proportion to your admiration for the star. Fanny Skeffington's emotional journey through more than 30 years is a long, long trek.

As the belle of New York, with dozens of beaux fighting just to look in her smile, Fanny marries Job Skeffington, enormously rich, much her senior, for her own security and to provide unlimited funds for her wastrel brother. Now Mr. Skeffington's devotion is deep, and his patience exceeds that of his Biblical namesake.

For Fanny won't relinquish her admirers. A vain, frivolous woman, not wanting her little daughter, unwilling to think about the inexorable passage of time, Fanny is as inhuman as a robot bomb.

Her brother, revolted by her marriage, is killed flying for her. La Fayette Escadrille, and after breezing through speakasy days, the loathsome Mrs. S. divorces her long-suffering mate.

It's long after her husband and daughter have gone to live in Europe and the ravages of disease have transformed her into haggard, be-wigged old woman, clinging pitifully to the remnants of her beauty, that Fanny reluctantly faces the fact that old age is life's crowning insult.

Her Job does come back—from a concentration camp in Nazi Germany. It's only he who does not recoil from the frightful mask that to him had been the most beautiful face in the world. For Job is blind.

Claude Rains' performance is a fine one in the title role, Walter Abel is just right as Fanny's always devoted cousin, Maurice Riordan makes a sweet and appealing grown-up daughter, and George Coulouris stands out in a brief bit as a psycho-analyst.

Seeks Missing Wife

Austin Nanigan, of Alta Crest Farm, Spencer, today asked the Record-American to help locate his wife, Grace, 22, who has been missing from home since June 23. The husband reported that his son, Stephen, convalescing from an operation, constantly asks for his mother.

Must Muzzle Fido on B. & M.

Some dogs "have mistaken a baggage man's shin for the dining car." So the Boston and Maine and Maine Central railroads laid down the law today.

Henceforth, their rules regarding pets with passengers would be strictly enforced. They must be muzzled!

Some trainmen, of late, have been accepting dogs without muzzles after their owners have assured the trainmen that the dogs were "very kind and lovely," a road official said. They may be at home, he added, but not en route.

You fight when you write

Make out a grocery list. Figure your own ration points. Shop in half the time and save man-power.

CAIN'S MAYONNAISE

To help with home preserving And coming let me say, "Clean out those jars, the cups and lids. The very OAKITE way."

ATEASPOONFUL OR TWO IS ENOUGH!

OAKITE

The gentle grease-remover that cleans even in ice water.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Thursday—A rather interesting suggestion has been sent me which concerns the wives of servicemen going to visit their husbands in crowded areas. The person writing me says that too often people do not carry adequate identification with them, and this leads to many difficulties.

For instance, my correspondent says that wives of servicemen might be picked up by the police, and if they have no means of identification they might find themselves in difficult situations. Besides, in cases of illness or accident or financial distress, or even if they were looking for a job, some form of identification must be produced.

One could carry a marriage certificate or a photostatic copy of it; letters indicating the receipt of allotments, or a dispensary card, a license containing a picture or fingerprints, ration books—anything, in fact, which will show that you are the person you claim to be, will sometimes save you a great deal of inconvenience and trouble.

IT WAS a great pleasure the other day to take Miss Marian Anderson, Mrs. Robert L. Van of Pittsburgh, and Miss Agnes Lee, who is teaching at the Horace Mann Lincoln School this summer, and one or two others over to the Wiltwyck School. That evening Miss Charl Williams came to spend the night and to discuss the White House arrangements for a rural education conference which several groups are planning to call in the early autumn. I am much interested in the good that may come from bringing together, at the present time, a conference of this kind.

YESTERDAY We had our annual picnic for the Hudson Shore Labor School, and some 37 people came over, arriving by bus and taxi. Transportation in these days requires more planning, but I was glad they did not have to give up the party, because it has become one of the things I count on every summer. I enjoy the opportunity to talk with the girls who are trying to train themselves to be better leaders in their respective industries.

I HAVE JUST learned of a committee formed by the United Daughters of the Confederacy to advocate that Sidney Lanier have a place in the Hall of Fame in New York city. I read of it in the Southern Literary Messenger, and I hope for the success of this effort, since Sidney Lanier has always seemed to me one of the outstanding literary figures in our history. He labored under great difficulties, and was not only one of our finest poets, but the greatest American flute player of his day, and a man of almost Christ-like character.

The Correct Cape and Suit Ensemble

By ELINOR AMES

By BETTINA BEDWELL

DON'T DO THIS! Don't put your foot on your chair or other piece of office furniture.

CAPES as extra wraps to wear with a suit are being promoted by quite a lot of our important designers. They are particularly important on clothes slated to adorn the college girl and the junior.

The ensemble sketched by Miss Dulin is one of the new cape and suit ensembles, and it makes use of a new rayon leopard that comes from Du Pont and looks more like real leopard than most such fabrics.

This rayon leopard lines the cape, which is made of red wool and has a tier at the back. The skirt is of the same wool, while the waistcoat jacket is leopard, with sleeves of the red wool. The skirt has a double row of buttons at the front and is a wrap-around type.

Queenly Scent Coolness

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

NOT ALL OF US can tinkle our toes in the briny deep every day during the summer. That precious pastime is exclusively saved for those "two weeks with pay" and the week-ends . . . when with time on our hands . . . we make the most of our leisure.

And, so we must find ways of keeping cool while at work . . . despite the high temperatures which usually reduce most of us to grease spots. The secret of remaining as cool as the proverbial cucumber is to work at it in the easiest possible way. And, a little touch of a fragrance . . . created for a Russian Empress 200 years ago . . . can do much to perk you up . . . at the same time help you to maintain intriguing smartness.

Catherine the Great loved this fragrance . . . made it, in fact, so exclusively her own that no other in her court could wear it without the royal consent. Today it is a favored odor among women . . . who, like Catherine, want to be more intriguing, poised and cool at all times. In the past it stirred the pulse of kings . . . but today it is a feminine lovely especially delightful in summertime.

FRESHENS YOU UP

I like to sniff as I write . . . and the appealing and captivating scent of this history-important blend of perfume and cologne . . . has created an aura of sophistication and youthfulness . . . of witchery old in history. It gets mighty hot and stuffy in an office . . . and an open window, at times, doesn't do much good to relieve the sticky closeness . . . but just dab a touch of a scintillating fragrance behind the ears, at the hairline and in the back of the neck and you feel at poise and peace with a warm world.

It is more than an attitude that this blend of perfume and cologne of lasting quality and appealing scent magically freshens you up. Perhaps that's why so many a career girl always keeps a vial of this blend in her desk drawer . . . to be utilized when the mood and the moment present themselves . . . especially right in warm wear because it is so fresh when applied. Its fine perfume oils make it a lingering delight.

NICE, LIGHT BLEND

It is not as expensive as perfume because it is a blend of perfume and cologne . . . but in summertime I prefer such a lighter blend. It is more in keeping with summertime casualness.

For the name of this queenly scent, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, or write me because it is so fresh when applied. Its fine perfume oils make it a lingering delight.

Fewer Canned Tomatoes So Put Up All Possible

By MARTHA LEE

WE CAN COUNT on only five-eighths as much of commercially canned tomatoes and tomato juice this coming autumn and winter as we had last year. So home-canning some of the tomatoes in your victory garden is one way to make sure of vitamin C for meals later on.

Tomatoes are easy to can when up-to-date directions are used, and the boiling water bath method is recommended by government experts. Any big, clean vessel—washboiler, metal pail, lard can—will do for a boiling water bath, provided it has a good lid and is deep enough. The container must hold a rack and the jars, and have three or four inches to spare above jar tops so water can roll and bubble. For canning a small amount of tomatoes, a kettle holding two to three jars may be big enough.

CANNING PREPARATIONS

Get ready only enough tomatoes for one canner load at a time. Handle them gently so they will not bruise, and wash in several waters. For easy peeling put tomatoes in a wire basket or thin cloth, dip into boiling water about a minute, then plunge into cold. Cut out stem ends and peel. Quarter tomatoes and heat in their own juice, stirring frequently to prevent sticking and burning.

While tomatoes are heating, place clean glass jars, glass lids and metal screw caps in water and heat to boiling. Do not boil any metal lids edged with sealing compound; wipe these off with a clean damp cloth and dip into boiling water just before sealing jars. It is well to boil wartime rubber rings 10 minutes in water and baking soda (1 quart fresh water, 1 tablespoon to each dozen rings), then rinse well, to help keep rings from flavoring food.

PACKING JARS

When tomatoes have come to a boil, remove from heat. Take one jar at a time from the hot water. Fill with hot tomatoes, using a funnel if one is available. Cover with hot juice to within a half-inch of top. Add a teaspoon of salt to each quart. Work out air bubbles with a knife blade and add more juice if needed.

Wipe jar rim with a clean, damp cloth. A speck of food on the rim may prevent an airtight seal and cause the tomatoes to spoil. Adjust jar top according to directions for its type. Work fast so tomatoes will not cool.

PROCESSING

Have water 1 to 2 inches over the tops of jars, and put each jar into the canner as soon as jar is filled and lid adjusted. When water boils hard, put on canner lid and begin counting time. Process 10 minutes at sea level. At higher altitudes, add an extra minute to processing time for each 1000 feet above sea level.

When time is up, take out one jar at a time and complete the seal unless self-sealing metal lids have been used.

Place jars top-side up on thick cloth or paper to cool. Keep jars well apart and out of drafts. Next day remove screw bands, but do not force them to get them off. If they stick, cover for a minute or two with hot, damp cloth to loosen.

TOMATO JUICE

Tomato juice is put up in much the same way as plain tomatoes. Softer tomatoes may be used for juice if they are not over-ripe and have no bad spots. Remove stem ends, cut into pieces. Simmer until softened. Put through a fine sieve. Add to tomatoes 1 teaspoon of salt to each quart. Reheat at once to boiling. Fill into hot jars and leave 1/2-inch head space. Adjust lids according to kind and process for 15 minutes.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11—This is the story of an actor and his agent. The actor is Tom Tully, who plays featured roles, and the agent is Arthur Lyons.

Betty Grable

Lyons, who with David Loew is producing the picture, "Hold Autumn in Your Hand." And that is what this story is about.

Agent Lyons promised Tully a nice and prominent role in his picture, "Hold Autumn in Your Hand." "We've just started to prepare the script," said Arthur Lyons, "and meanwhile I have a part for you in Dore Schary's picture 'Double Fudge'."

After Tully finished playing in this picture, he phoned his agent, Lyons, who said: "We're still preparing the script on 'Hold Autumn in Your Hand.' But until we're ready I have a good part for you in the Joel McCrea picture, 'Her Heart in Her Hand'."

"That's fine," said Tully, "and with an increase in salary." Tully took this role, finished it, and then phoned his agent again. Lyons said: "Don't be in a hurry, Tom. We're still preparing the script. Remember, I'm not only your agent, but I'm producing the picture and the part is yours. Meanwhile, I have a good part for you in 'The Town Went Wild'—a picture they're making at PRC—and with another raise."

The other day Tom Tully completed his role in "The Town Went Wild" and phoned Arthur Lyons.

"Oh, about that picture," said Arthur Lyons, producer and agent, "Tom, I'm afraid that for that role we can't afford to pay you the salary you now get."

THE PICTURE "Wing and a Prayer" has a sequence that probably expresses every actor's feeling about a movie love scene. Bill Eythe, in the picture, plays a former movie star who is now a pilot on an aircraft carrier. Of course, his buddies are excited about having a movie star in their ranks, and when they get hold of a fan magazine which shows him in an ardent embrace with Betty Grable they start asking how it feels to kiss a regular glamour girl.

The boys persist, and when Eythe realizes that they are not rubbing him he decides to play it straight.

"The night before the scene was to be filmed," he began, "I didn't get a wink of sleep. Next morning I hurried over to the set. We took our places. She was wearing a beautiful black negligee."

The boys sigh. Bill continues. "Lovely, revealing. Her hair was swept back from her forehead. Her eyes were partly closed. I took her into my arms."

Eythe sees the other pilots are really envying him.

"Well, then the hairdresser yelled: 'Don't hold her so close; you're musing her hairdo!'"

"The director screamed: 'Hey, take your arm from around her neck. You're tugging her collar!'"

"The cameraman said: 'You can't kiss her square on the lips like that; I can't see her nose!'"

"So," said Bill Eythe, "I just kissed her way off center and smacked the air. So you see, fellas, if you want to kiss a girl and kiss her good, you gotta join the Navy."

THE ICE-CREAM SHORTAGE is one scarcity from which we may expect little relief . . . But winter is coming . . . Of one regiment of soldiers which entrained from Camp Edwards early in 1942 for Australia, only 22 men escaped death, wounds or illness, we are informed reliably . . . Boston friends of Brig. Gen. William I. Rose, the three-decorated hero of this war (and winner of decorations in World War I) will be thankful to learn that the Worcester general is in action again . . . Gen. Rose has been floored eight times by malaria . . . He was the first general officer to fly into Guadalcanal when our boys had improvised the island's first airstrip . . . The beautiful Lili is returning to Boston Aug. 18 as a star all right—but a star of the Old Howard, which is 3600 miles (to speak only of distance) from Culver City or Burbank.

WALTER HUSTON is looking for a play, and so is Lucille Ball . . . The rumor that an arrival is expected by Miss Ball and her husband, Desi Arnez, may be denied, and we have Lucille's personal word for it . . . Helen Deutsch, who used to pay long Tuesday visits at the Boston drama-critics' desks as press-agent for the Theater Guild, has more than crashed the Hollywood writing racket . . . At 22, Loves Boy of 18

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: A few weeks ago I met a young man who lives in my neighborhood. He asked me out and we are now going together, seeing each other twice a week. I thought he was at least 23 years old from his actions, but when I asked him to my great surprise he said he was 18. I'm 22, but I look younger, and he does know my age. I care a great deal for him, but I don't think I'd be doing him justice because I'm so much older—four years. Do you think it would make a difference later on, if I marry him? He insists he will always love me. W. It seems to be the way of boys to have their first love affairs with girls who are older, and engagements not taken very seriously by either party, sometimes result. But it would be foolish, don't you think, to entertain thoughts of marriage in connection with this friendship. Copyright, 1944, King Features Synd., Inc.

Racing Will Give State $5,500,000

By JACK CONWAY

HORSE AND dog racing will give the State of Massachusetts $5,500,000 this year, according to Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Racing Commission. Suffolk Downs and Raynham cracked old records, while Wonderland Park and Dighton are busy smashing former mutuel marks to tiny bits.

The average nightly mutuel handle at Wonderland Park is $422,000, says Chairman Connors. When the greyhound track at Revere was opened in 1935 its owners would have been delighted if they were sure of a nightly mutuel average of $75,000. Chairman Connors says he has been stalling up nights trying to figure out a daily double rule that would be more satisfactory than the present one, but that he has not been successful. He has asked racers to submit their suggestions, and most of the proposed rules do not work out as well as the present one.

Chas. Connors

The difficulty comes when a horse or dog is scratched in the second race. There is a refund to those persons who had the winning horse or dog in the first race, but there is not any refund if the first half of the double ran out. There are some persons who say they are entitled to a refund if the complete double they purchased did not go.

Persons who have held the first half of the double which won have felt they should get more than their money back. Some of this class have contended they should get as much for their tickets as the winning horse or dog paid in the mutuels. This money, of course, would have to come out of the daily double pool.

Under the present rule the bettor gets his money back if his first horse or dog wins and his second one is scratched.

There was a recent case at Wonderland Park where a dog in the second race was taken ill on the way to the post. The veterinarian used good judgment in scratching this dog. One cannot leave a sick dog run and expect dog racing to last very long.

Persons who had the scratched dog coupled with the winning greyhound in the first race, if tested to the Racing Commission when they only got their money back. Other persons protested because they had the dog that was scratched even though their dog in the first race had been beaten. If you have a better rule than the one now in force in Massachusetts, send it to Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Racing Commission, No. 294 Washington st., Boston.

Free To Be Starter
BOB FREND, starter at Rockingham Park and at Suffolk Downs, will also be the starter at the Massachusetts Fair circuit that opens at Marshfield on Aug. 29. The Marshfield meeting will run through Labor Day.

The Commission has granted Northampton dates that begin with Labor Day and run through that week. The Brockton and Great Barrington Fair will follow in that order.

Jimmy Picarillo, who will be racing secretary at Marshfield, Brockton and Great Barrington says he will have 200 horses by the time Marshfield opens. Eben Foss, racing secretary at Northampton, has made arrangements to secure many new horses for his meeting. With the various tracks doing their utmost to get the best of the half-milers, it is expected that the fair racing will be the best ever.

Random Shots at Target

PRES. GORDON B. HANLON of Suffolk Downs, who visited Rockingham Park in the company of Frank Ryan, was greatly impressed by the fine flower gardens in the infield, by the well kept stands, and by the first class racing. . . . Hanlon recently visited Garden State and Belmont. . . . He considers Garden State one of the best of the tracks in the East as far as the comfort of the fans is concerned. . . . You may expect to see Hanlon make numerous improvements at Suffolk Downs. . . . He is already planning high steel stands for the patrol judges. . . . Each stand will be equipped with a telephone so that the patrol judges can make immediate reports to the stewards.

Hanlon likes racing, and is fast learning its many ramifications.

Miss Sherlock In Title Swim

Louise Sherlock, 13-year-old swimming star from the auxiliary of the Olneyville Boys' Club, Providence, R. I., has filed her entry for the New England A. A. U. senior 880-yard free style championship, one of the features of the 1935 American-Sunday Advertiser Park Department meet to be held at Carson Beach, South Boston, Sunday afternoon, Aug. 20.

This event will be one of four AAU title events to be contested on one of the most interesting swimming programs staged in New England in years.

Miss Sherlock has been tuning up for this assault on the 880-yard title all season and she'll have her mind set on taking over the Mayor Maurice J. Tobin trophy to be presented the winner. The youngster will be trying to carry on in place of defending champion, Clara Lamore, who will have left for the Nationals in Kansas City at meet time.

Other NEAAU title events will be: Senior 100-meter breaststroke and junior 50-meter freestyle for men; 100-meter backstroke for men.

The remainder of the program lists: 100-meter freestyle and backstroke, open, for women; 50-meter freestyle for 10-11 and 12-13 year old girls; 100-meter freestyle and breaststroke, open, for men; 440-yard freestyle, open, for men; 50-meter freestyle for 10-11, 12-13 and 14-15 year olds.

Entries may be filed with the Swimming Editor, Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, 8, Mass.

O'Neill Looks Great But Browns Lead Pack

By BILL GRIMES

Although they have taken two straight from the Chicago White Sox, the Red Sox haven't gained an inch of the St. Louis Browns, who have protected their six-and-one-half game lead by turning back the Joe McCarthy's world's champions twice in a row.

Emmett O'Neill came up with his third consecutive win for the Red Sox yesterday. He was forced to bear down until the last man was out, but he did flinch and won a fine pitching duel over Joe Haynes and a 2 to 1 victory over the Dykesmen.

O'Neill gave up on seven hits. He was ahead of the batters all

Weatherman Rules Marblehead Racing

By JOHN AHERN

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 11—This may be tempting fate but it seems that this late in the week it's safe to mention the weather.

And if the weather man continues to pick 'em as he has all week today will be another perfect one for racing and if the promised heat sets in along with the moderate winds the second Corinthian regatta has a good chance of topping Boston's 190 total.

The looked for 200-fleet has been very elusive this Race Week despite the fact enough boats are at the 'Head and should be racing. But one more scorcher like last Saturday and everything that floats will be fighting for a weather berth on the Corinthian line.

Weather alone isn't the main topic of conversation among the crowds that congregate at the Eastern, Corinthian, Boston and the various spots around town. The foremost conversational piece is the outstanding competition.

When has there ever been a Race Week in which the top-notch boats have been beaten with such consistency?

MOOSE A PROBLEM

Take Marblehead's two big classes—the Thirties and the Internationals—and the boats that have walked away with all the prizes in the early series are running away back in the ruck. And to make things even better boats that have been doing poorly suddenly find the fair winds and running seas to their liking and start taking the trophies.

John Lawrence's Moose is the question mark in the "Squeaks." The white sparrow beauty won all the time until Race Week started and then she took a first on the opening day. Since then she has been in the middle until yesterday when she finished second after being recalled for an early start. But the big disappointment has been in the Internationals, where Linc Davis has been trimmed five days in a row.

Johnny Marvin upset the dope in the 110's when he took Ray

Hunt's old Hautboy to the gun three days running.

The best "dog-fight" have been staged in the town class and the hustlers. No towie has yet had the privilege of winning twice and only one hustler, Boston Bay's Mower designed Catboats, has taken the gun smoke more than once. Johnny Kerrigua's Hunch is the lucky boat but now that he has two to his credit it's very likely the rest of the class will cover him closely from now on.

The reduced snipe fleet is taking another lesson this year from their fresh water "cousins" from Winchester. Last year Byron Wiswell showed the "old salts" the way in the By George and now Ralph Swanson, a sea faring name if there ever was one, is doing the same.

Yankees No Longer Threat to Browns

By Associated Press

Joe McCarthy's "world champions" rested in fourth place today, 9½ games back and no longer a threat to St. Louis' bid for its first American League pennant unless the age of miracles is just around the corner.

When Denny Galehouse shut out the New Yorkers with six singles yesterday, 3-0, allowing only one man to reach second base, he drained most of the hope from the Yankee fans who had banked on a clean sweep, or at least 3 out of 4, from the Browns to put them back in the running.

It was the Browns' 10th straight victory, the longest string in the league this year, topping their sensational opening spurt by one, and protected their 6½ game margin on second-place Boston.

New York skeptics who had waited for St. Louis to pull the accordion act were convinced Luke Stettin's talented crew was the most consistent club in the circuit and headed for a World Series cut.

PREDICT SMALL SERIES CUT

Talk was that the series slices might not be as generous as usual because of the limited capacity of Sportsman's Park, but they will be juicy enough for the Browns who never had a taste.

Galehouse' shut rounding into form after a late start as a "Sunday" pitcher on part time from a defense plant, captured his fifth straight and first whitewash job at the expense of Ernie Bonham, No. 2 Yankee ace.

Boston remained hot for the week-end St. Louis series by taking a second straight from Chicago, 2-1, behind Emmett O'Neil. Bob Johnson's three hits helped send Joe Haynes down for his second loss.

Detroit shouldered New York out of third place by trouncing Washington in a night game, 3-2. Dizzy Trout had to travel 10 innings to beat Johnny Niggeling but he did the trick on a 5-hitter for his 18th win, tying Hal Newhouser and Tex Hughson.

SEVEN WINS FOR HEYING

Myril Hoag's single scoring Russ Peters in the ninth gave Joe Heying his seventh victory and Cleveland a 5-4 share over Philadelphia. Jittery Joe Berry, who relieved Luke Hamlin, was charged with the defeat.

Mort Cooper lifted the St. Louis Cards 18½ games out in front of the National League with their 74th victory in 101 games by shutting out the Phils, 2-0, on Whitey Kurowski's 13th homer with Ray Sanders on base in the fourth.

Red Barrett hurled the third scoreless game of the day by out-punching Buckie Walters for Boston's 2-0 margin over Cincinnati.

Tom Warren's pinch single with the bases loaded scored two winning runs in the 11th inning in Brooklyn's 6-4 victory over Chicago as the Cubs missed a chance to regain fourth when New York bowed to Pittsburgh, 10-4.

Tickets Available For Sunday Twin Bill On Warpath

General Manager Eddie Collins announced yesterday that the entire main grand stand will be reserved for Sunday's doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns.

Originally it was planned to reserve 28 rows, but when that supply was exhausted Wednesday an S. O. S. was sent to the printer for eight more rows of tickets.

However, there will be between 75,000 and 150,000 unreserved tickets for the stand and bleachers on sale Sunday.

Lou Finney was forced to retire yesterday at the end of Chicago's half of the opening inning. After making a great play to block Wally Moses' hard smash, Jim Tabor's throw was in on the runner, who collided with Finney when Lou reached for the ball. Orville Grova who was scheduled to pitch for the White Sox yesterday and who was to have "worked" against the Yankees in New York Sunday, reported to the "sick bay" and Joe Haynes took over the hurling assignment.

CLIFFORDS DOING O. K.

Lt. Arthur Clifford, son of the former sports writer, who is home on a leave after getting his "wings," watched the game from a field box. He has a brother, Ralph, Jr., flying with the Army Air Corps in Italy and three more, Dickie, Jimmie and Frankie, in the service. Yes, sir, the Cliffords are doing all right by Uncle Sam.

Thurman Tucker, who was leading the American League, on his last visit here, is in a terrific batting slump. But, he tripled when O'Neill tried to sneak a 2 and 0 pitch over on him in the 6th. Rex Cecil, the big right hand pitcher purchased from San Diego, will arrive at the Boston Airport at 3:30 Saturday afternoon. He has a reservation on the 2:30 p. m. plane out of San Diego, Friday. The White Sox came up with a triple play in the 4th. Singles by Pete Fox, Bob Johnson and Bobby Doerr had filled the bases.

Jim Tabor hit a low sinking line drive which Ralph Hodgins speared back handed, stepped on the bag, doubling up Fox and then threw to Eddie Carnett in time to get Doerr by the proverbial hair.

That play ruined what looked like a big Red Sox round. Mike Fitzgerald put on his annual steamed clams and lobster feed after the game in Tommy Cummings' concession room. Mike claims he steamed clams and boiled lobsters in the "Old Country" before migrating to Fall River in the gay 90's. Bob Johnson had another good day with the willow. He's crowding the leaders for top honors.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11 (AP) —

Frankie Colman, the "disappearing gun" of Pittsburgh Pirates' artillery, apparently has come out of hiding for an all-out attack on National League pitchers.

The Toronto, Ont., graduate who seemed to be on his way towards some sort of record in breaking up games with pinch-hitting, broke into the regular lineup for the first time in weeks Wednesday night, and yesterday went out to blast two home runs into right field stands.

Now, manager Frankie Frisch plans to keep him out there in right field just as "long as he hits."

His record as a game-breaker started on May 21 when he best Philadelphia with a pinch triple. On May 26 a three-run homer in a pinch role beat the Braves at Boston. On July 9 here his pinch triple gave Pittsburgh 3-3 tie with Chicago and the game went 11 innings. It still is to be played.

Four days later he tripled with two on to beat the Cubs. On Aug. 7 here his pinch double with bases loaded drove in three runs and ended the Cubs' 11-game winning streak. Wednesday night he singled in the seventh to drive in the winning run in the Buc's 4-3 victory over the Giants.

"He's been playing heads up ball all around, along with his hitting, and I think this recent shakeup in the outfield has been a good thing," Frisch, erstwhile Fordham flash, said. "He can stay out there as long as he hits."

Browns Hard To Overtake

of the campaign. He tried to put too much on the ball and naturally, he didn't have the control required to win the major league.

"In my opinion, O'Neill will be a consistent winner from here in. Of course if the armed forces get many more of our keymen, it's going to take super-hurling to register victories. Emmett has a live, fast ball and a pretty good curve. And, now that he has learned to ease up, he's pacing himself and it should be a breeze for him to win consistently."

LADIES THIS IS YOURS

The Red Sox and White Sox play another single game this afternoon. And, it is Ladies' Day. Manager Cronin will send Yank Terry after the Pale Hose and Jimmy Dykes will counter with Jack Humphries. The White Sox have now lost 16 out of 18 games to the Croninmen this season.

Lou Finney will be back in the lineup this afternoon. While reaching for a ball thrown by Jim Tabor in the first play yesterday, Lou wrenched his elbow when Wally Moses ran into him. Trainer Win Green had ice packs on Finney's arm all yesterday afternoon and again this morning.

Army Favors Contact Sports

FT. LEWIS, Wash., Aug. 11 (AP)—Capt. William R. Bond, Army service forces training center athletic officer, asserted today that "75 per cent of the American men never have had a bloody nose or been physically exhausted."

Consequently, he said in a press release, "they don't know how much they can take."

He said the only way a man can learn "what a wonderful mechanism the human body is" is to get in there where "the going is rough and tough. That is why the Army favors contact sports—boxing, football, wrestling."

Knorr to Assist At Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kan., Aug. 11 (AP)—Kansas State College's coaching staff was completed today with the appointment of Fritz Knorr as assistant football coach and head basketball coach.

Knorr, a student of Charlie Corraut, former K-State basketball coach, and Bo McMillin, former Kansas State football mentor who now is at Indiana University, has been with the department of physical education of the Manhattan school the past two years.

Dilboy Shows Grand Spirit

All profits of the amateur boxing show to be held at Dilboy Field, Somerville, next Wednesday night by the George Dilboy Post, V. F. W., will be turned over to the drive for Christmas gifts for ailing and disabled veterans of World War II now being conducted by the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

This move was generated by the members of the Post who were forsaking their own Veterans Fund in order to spur on the drive for comfort for the kids of this war.

As in previous shows, setting new highs in attendance as well as in top-notch competition, battling will be in the 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweight classes. Entries may be filed with Fred Russo, 371 Summer st., Somerville.
